Gloves

Many people do not realize how important good fit in gloves is for protecting your hands. It is vital to get a precise fit. If your gloves are too large you risk getting blisters and have trouble handling your equipment. If the gloves are too small you'll develop excess strain and lose efficiency. We carry all glove sizes to cover the smallest to the largest hands. We also carry the finest quality gloves, split grain and top grain cowhide for long life and protection against splinters and thorns. We also have gloves for handling chemicals and working soil.

Safety Gear

Besides gloves we carry eye protection-sunglasses, safety goggles, screen shields and insect netting. We also have hardhats and accessories for them, along with safety vests, visors, ear plugs, etc. Browse through our catalog. We also have Ricky (see above) who models all our safety fashions. Also, check out our first aid kits, Derma Shield skin protector and road safety items (cones, tape, etc.)

Pruning Tools

Artistic Arborist has the largest selection of pruning tools available in the Southwest. We pride ourselves on carrying only the finest equipment available from Japan, Switzerland, and the United States.

Saws

The Japanese first introduced "tri-cut" saw blades to the industry about 20 years ago. These blades go by names such as Turbocut, Razor Cut, and Tiger Tooth depending on the manufacturer. They are revolutionary because they reduce the effort needed to make pruning cuts and cut more rapidly than conventional blades but they also leave a beautiful smooth finish to the cut limb that accelerates healing and wound closure. ARS and Silky saws are made by the same lineage of craftsmen that produced samurai swords in Medieval Japan. Other manufactures we carry include Felco, Corona, Barnell and Fanno. Saw blades come in various lengths. They can be straight or curved, handles can be angled, curved, opened or close handled, made of wood or composite materials and saws can fold or be fixed. We also sell replacement blades and scabbards from Weaver, Felco, and others to keep your blades sharp and protect you from injury.

What to Look For in Saw Blades

Artistic Arborist, only sells tri-cut saw and does not sell conventional saw blades on its pruning tools. Conventional blades have every other tooth bent out to make their cutting action. These saws dull quickly and leave a raw, coarse cut on the wood that heals slowly. Japanese tri-cut blades are machine ground with straight sides, thinner at the top and thicker at the teeth so the blade does not bind while cutting. The saw teeth are precisely ground at three separate angles, hence the name "tri-cut". The process requires a special automated machine made in Japan that costs over $5 million dollars. These remarkable saw blades exhibit long lasting sharpness, clog-free sawing and a finished cut so smooth it appears to be planed. Tri-cut saws don't rip like a saw, they cut like a knife.
